The work behind expert decisions

01 Research and checks crowd out time for decisions.

02 Knowledge and workload gather around a few people.

03 Hiring and training specialists take time.

04 Generic AI misses the language and rules of the job.

More time for expert judgment

AI supports research and preparation. Professionals review the work and make the decisions. We build that division of work into everyday practice.

People remain responsible for review and final decisions.

SOLUTION

AI shaped around your workflow

We review your team's knowledge, daily tasks and data requirements to plan a product deployment or a custom system.

Research in progress

Two research and development projects, separate from the product catalogue.

Research stage

Transcribing brainwaves

Studying text generation from non-invasive EEG recordings. We reproduce published methods and test their use in Japanese.

Research stage. No product date is set.

In development

Anime frame-generation AI

Developing support for the in-between frames between an animator's key drawings, as a tool within the artist's workflow.

In development. Technical details are not yet public.
